

Made with love with Sharewell

Elise's next chapter

Made with love with Sharewell

I still remember the meeting when the schedule was three weeks late and you simply asked, "What really has to matter by Friday?" Ten minutes later, everything felt possible again.

– Sacha

Your advice was precise, your feedback demanding, and your door genuinely open. Wishing you a retirement full of days chosen for pleasure, new projects, and very good coffee.

– Tom

– Noura

On my first day, you had already prepared a place, a green notebook, and a list of people to meet. Thank you for always welcoming new teammates with that rare attention. Enjoy every minute of what comes next!

– Noura

Elise, you taught us to ask the calm question before rushing toward the complicated answer. I still think about the launch you rescued with three sticky notes and a cold coffee. Thank you for everything you passed on to us.

– Malik

– Malik

Six hundred kilometres from the office, I never felt far from the team: you always remembered to open the video call before the real conversations began. Thank you for making that space for us.

– Lea

– Lea

unanimous vote: today, no tracking sheet comes before the cake. Happy retirement, Elise, and thank you for everything you leave behind—especially in the way we work.

– The Atelier team

